Annette Dueck is an associate practising in the Corporate/Securities Group in Stikeman Elliott's Vancouver office. She has a comprehensive practice in commercial law transactions for clients in heavily regulated industries. Her primary focus is deal structuring, regulatory compliance and board governance in the financial services sector.

Annette's extensive experience in regulatory law includes regulated and unregulated services, including compliance and capital matters. She also has a keen appreciation of her clients' technology issues and the regulatory environment in which financial institutions use data. Her provincial and federal regulatory expertise is sought by both the private sector and the regulatory agencies. She advises clients on customer-facing practices, payments and card services, privacy and analytics compliance, as well as expansion into Canada, ongoing general compliance and strategic capital matters.

During the progression of her practice, Annette has been advising domestic and foreign banks, federal and provincial trust companies, domestic and foreign insurers and reinsurers, brokers and agencies, payments and cards service providers, and central and retail credit unions. She has provided regulatory expertise on many acquisitions, continuances and divestitures by financial institutions and their subsidiaries in both the mutual and non-mutual sectors. She is valued by clients for her success in achieving federal and provincial approvals on leading and transformative transactions. Her advice has been instrumental in federal and inter-jurisdictional structuring and regulatory matters for the wholesale and retail sectors of the credit union system. One public example is the historic combination of BC Central and Ontario Central to form Central 1 in their transaction valued at C$8B.
